Performance

In April 2026, the WS Gresham House UK Multi Cap Income Fund increased by 9.6%, greatly outperforming the IA UK Equity Income sector which increased by 3.0%.

Key positive contributions came from Global Data (+1.2% Contribution to Total Return ("CTR")), following the launch of a £10m share buyback scheme and full-year results last month which demonstrated continued revenue growth and strategic progress, reinforcing confidence in long-term growth despite a more investment-led phase; Elixir (+0.8% CTR), following full year results which highlighted continued strong revenue growth, international expansion and the acquisition of TRC Advisory, enhancing its US presence and strategic capabilities, reinforcing confidence in the scalability of its partner-led consulting model and long-term earnings trajectory; and Gamma Communications (+0.7% CTR), following confirmation it is in preliminary discussions with potential offerors regarding a possible acquisition.

The largest detractors were GSK (-0.2% CTR), despite reporting in-line first quarter results and multiple announcements of products given Chinese approval such as Exdensur and Blenrep; Peel Hunt (-0.1% CTR), despite a trading update ahead of market expectations at the very end of March; and Watkin Jones (-0.1% CTR), despite an in-line trading update during the period.

Portfolio activity

The Fund made one full exit during the period, from: Integrafina, following a strong Q1 trading update which reported robust net inflows and record funds under direction despite macro uncertainty, supporting continued operational momentum, enabling us to crystallise gains and redeploy this capital into higher-conviction opportunities with greater return potential.

The team made two new investments during the period, into: Auto Trader, a leading UK digital automotive marketplace, which we believe is well positioned to benefit from its dominant market position, high-margin and highly cash generative business model, and continued pricing power, supporting strong earnings visibility and resilience despite cyclical pressures in the automotive market; and Rightmove, the online property portal, which benefits from its market-leading network effects, premium listing model and high levels of agent engagement, underpinning robust recurring revenues and strong cash generation.

1. Fund statistics definitions

Volatility is a statistical measurement that, when applied to an investment fund, expresses its volatility, or risk. It shows how widely a range of returns varied from the fund's average return over a particular period.

Alpha is a measure of a fund's over-or-underperformance in comparison to the benchmark of the fund. Alpha represents the extra value the manager's activities have contributed, the greater the alpha, the greater the outperformance.

Beta is a statistical estimate of a fund's volatility in comparison to its benchmark. It depicts how sensitive the fund is to movements in the section of the market that comprises the benchmark.

Sharpe is the level of a fund's return over and above the return of a notional risk-free investment, such as cash or government bonds. The difference in returns is then divided by the fund's standard deviation (volatility). This is an indication of the amount of excess return generated per unit of risk. In general it is considered that the higher the Sharpe ratio, the better.

Information ratio is a risk-adjusted measure of actively managed fund performance. It assesses the degree to which a manager uses skill and knowledge to enhance the fund returns. The higher the information ratio, the better. It is generally considered that a figure of 0.5 reflects a good performance, 0.75 very good, and 1 outstanding.

Capital at risk. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. Portfolio investments in smaller companies typically involve a higher degree of risk. Charts and graphs are provided for illustrative purposes only as there is no official benchmark for this fund.
